Guide to completing these Notes:

Country

Where does this Whisky originate from?

Region

What area of the above country (if relevant)?

Distillery

What is the name of the distillery (if known)?

Type

Is it a Single Malt, Blended Malt, Grain, Rye, Corn, Blended or Liqueur Whisky?

Bottler

Is it bottled by the Distiller (OB) or by an independent bottler (IB)? If it is the later then name them.

Age

What age statement is on the bottle? If it is not stated then write NAS

ABV

What's the % of alcohol? In the UK, proof-to-ABV ratio is 7:4. In the US, it's 2:1

Owned

Do you currently own a bottle of this Whisky?

Colour

Hold the glass of whisky at an angle, against white paper and compare with the colour chart. The back cover of this book is designed for this

The Nosing

Swirl the whisky in the glass and sniff it cautiously.

If it is not too powerful get your nose right in the glass, and take a long slow breathe in. Not too deep, just enough to fully appreciate.

Different whiskies cause slightly different physical effects. Experts refer to phenomena such as 'nose prickle', or 'nose drying', or even 'nose burn'.

The basic characteristic aromas of the whisky will be present - you should tick them off.

Take further notes - once you have the basic details ticked off you may want to elaborate in the comments. You may have ticked "Fruit - Citric" and it may feel to you like Pear Drops, or Jam.

The Palate

Take a generous sip, roll it over your tongue. First you want to register the 'texture' of the whisky. It may be smooth and viscous, spirity and vaporous or astringent and dry.

Then you want to identify the primary tastes - the immediate flavours your tongue collects. There are only four: sweet, salty, sour and dry/bitter. Most whiskies will present a mixture of these flavours. Tick off the relevant boxes.

Take another sip, roll it over your tongue and around your mouth. What other flavours are there? Are they consistent with the whisky's aroma, or have new elements appeared? Note your impressions.

Tick all the basic flavours that you pick up on the Palate and add further description as needed in the comments field

The Finish

Once you have swallowed the whisky, does the taste linger? Is it Long, Medium or Short? Tick the relevant box on the Finish.

Are there any echoes of former tastes or aromas, or are there new ones? Is there any after-taste, pleasant or unpleasant?

Again, tick all the basic flavours that you pick up on the Finish and add further description as needed in the comments field

The Comments

You should have written in the comments the extra details you want to add about the Nose, Palate and Finish that is not covered or detailed enough by the tick boxes. Now you can also add the overall comments about how it all comes together, the price, the variation in batch etc.

The Score

Give it a score out of 100, most people split it across the three parts (Nose, Palate, Finish) and some add extra parts (Appearance, Overall, etc.).

An example would be: Nose, Palate & Finish giving 35, 35 and 30 respectfully. As a guideline to check the total score you could use:

- * 90 plus: WOW! The most amazing malts money can buy; absolutely legendary.
- * 85-89: Excellent! This is the good stuff we crave, loved and appreciated.
- * 80-84: Very Good! You really can't go wrong with these. Satisfaction guaranteed.
- * 75-79: Better than average! Good but would only consider buying if on special offer.
- * 70-74: Below average! Not the best but not something you would avoid either.
- * 60-69: Not for me! Possibly acceptable mixed with coke?!?!?
- * 50-59: Avoid! Extreme caution recommended.
- * Below 50: ARGHHH! Not fit for human consumption.
